Editor Australia

A Free Online Style Guide for Australian Writers and Editors

Amanda Greenslade is an editor in Brisbane who offers editing services Australia-wide.

Text is all around us and language is constantly evolving. The role of writers and editors is just as important in today's information age as it was in the past. With the rise of literacy in Australia and other developed nations, people from all walks of life are writing and reading more than ever.

Many people are publishing their words online and in books without having someone trained in grammar and Australian spelling look over them. The result is websites and published works with glaring mistakes and ambiguity. Editing and proofreading is not about being a stickler for perfection, rather it aims to make text more readable and easier to understand to the primary readership.

Editing should be flexible and reflect a strong understanding of (a) the target market and (b) the technical environment of the words. For example, if the words are intended for typesetting in Adobe InDesign, there will be different formatting requirements from what is required if they are intended for a webpage. There are many different kinds of editing and different levels of perfectionism so with each job, your editor should strive for the right balance. It may be counterproductive if an editor is too pedantic and drives a writer, designer or publisher up the wall for the sake of a tiny number of unimportant sticking points.

If you have come to this website, you may be looking for an editor (please click here) or you may be a writer or editor yourself looking for some tips on how to write in Australian English.

I've been building websites since I taught myself HTML aged 15 on GeoCities. I have designed, copywritten, edited and managed countless other websites that are no longer available or have changed since I moved on, including:

- Bedsrus.com.au and their members-only intranet
- TahitianNoni.com.au
- JoshuaBooks.com

$$$$$$$$ YOU CHOOSE THE ROYALTY PERCENTAGE! $$$$$$$$$

Did you know?

Children's books tend to be more successful in print rather than as ebooks; non-fiction does well in both print and ebook formats; whereas fiction authors often choose to test the market in ebook-format only. This reflects the format preferences of people who buy books.

Amazon-only self-publishing can be a good way to keep upfront costs down. While it is the biggest book store in the world, there are tens of thousands of others, which can add up to substantial sales if you distribute to them in an automated way.

There are more than 2,000 new books being launched every day, but most self-published writers don't understand their target market or have a sound marketing plan.

Australian Ebook Publisher, along with its print arm, Publish My Book Online, can help you navigate publishing and marketing your books, making you more likely to succeed!

Settling Into the Service

The transition to a new setting for the first time can sometimes be very emotional for both the child and their families. All of the College teaching staff and particularly your child's educators look forward to supporting your child and their family. If possible prior visits will assist your child to become familiar with the Adam and Noah Early Learning College, their room and the Educators who will care for them as well as reducing some of the anxiety around separating from parents on their first day. Please speak with the Nominated Supervisor to arrange a convenient time for visits. You are welcome to stay at Adam and Noah Early Learning College and familiarize yourself with service information which is available in the Parent Lounge.

On your child's first day it is a good idea to allow time to speak to the College teaching staff, to pass on any messages or instructions for the day.

We encourage you to say goodbye to your child and let them know when you will be back. This will help build trust between you and your child. The College staff will support your child and encourage them to participate in the fun and exciting curriculum activities programmed for the day. You are welcome to phone and check how your child has settled. The easiest way for your child to understand when you will return is by linking this to their routine and making them aware who will be collecting them.

Because it is important that you return when you have said you would, if you are going to be late, please let the College know and we will explain this to your child. Separation Anxiety is normal during transitions and occurs when a child becomes upset when separated from a parent or guardian. Separation anxiety usually occurs from six to eight months of age and can last until about four and a half years of age although it can last longer if the child has had painful separations in their early years. Separation anxiety reflects the child's attempts to hold on to what is safe in a scary world and it will settle down, as the child grows older and more confident.

Priority of Access and Multicultural and Equity Policy

The Australian Government has Priority of Access Guidelines for allocating places in a long day care centre. They set out the following three (3) levels of priority:

- PRIORITY 1 – a child at risk of serious abuse or neglect
- PRIORITY 2 – a child of a single parent who satisfies or parents who both satisfy the work / study / training test
- PRIORITY 3 – any other child

Within these main categories priority should also be given to the following children:

- children in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander families;
 - children in families which include a disabled person;
 - children in families which include an individual whose adjusted taxable income does not exceed the lower income threshold, or who or whose partner are on income support;
 - children in families from a non-English speaking background;
 - children in socially isolated families; and
 - children of single parents.
- A child care service may require a Priority 3 child to vacate a place to make room for a child with a higher priority. They can only do so if you:
- are notified when your child first entered care that your service follows this policy;
 - are given at least 14 days notice of the need for your child to vacate.

For more information: www.dewer.gov.au

Adam and Noah Early Learning College has a non-discriminatory access policy, which ensures children of different needs, religion, cultural and ethnic backgrounds are treated equally. Their needs are accommodated and their diversity of background is respected. Inclusion reflects the acceptance in society of the principles of social justice – that children of all ability levels and cultural and ethnic backgrounds have the same intrinsic value and are entitled to the same opportunities for participation, acceptance and belonging in childcare.

The benefits for inclusion can be:

- The opportunity to participate in the typical experiences of childhood
- The opportunity to be with other children and form friendships and develop other social skills
- The opportunity for natural learning of skills in real situations
- The opportunity to gain understanding about the diversity of people in the community
- The opportunity to gain skills and confidence to pursue inclusion in other settings
- Access to peer models

Utility-scale BESS integration with diesel generators

Introduction BESS for Generators

Utility-scale Battery Energy Storage Systems (BESS) are increasingly being integrated with diesel generators to create hybrid power systems. This strategy is especially useful in remote areas, islands, mining operations and microgrids. Here's how they work together and the benefits of such integration.

How BESS and diesel generators work together

- Load following and peak shaving: BESS can handle short-term fluctuations in power demand, reducing the need for diesel generators to ramp up and down frequently. This allows diesel generators to operate at optimal efficiency, reducing fuel consumption and wear.
- Spinning reserve replacement: Instead of keeping diesel generators running idle as backup (spinning reserve), BESS can provide instantaneous power during sudden load increases or generator failures.
- Start-stop optimization: BESS can delay or prevent the need to start additional diesel generators during short-term load spikes. This reduces generator runtime and maintenance needs.
- Renewable integration: In systems with solar or wind, BESS can store excess renewable energy and reduce reliance on diesel. Diesel generators then serve as a backup or baseload provider when renewables and batteries are insufficient.
- Black start capability: BESS can provide black start support, helping to restart diesel generators and other grid components after a blackout.

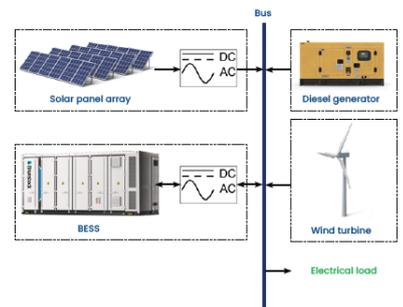

Benefits of BESS-diesel hybrid systems

- Fuel savings: Reduced diesel consumption leads to lower operational costs.
- Lower emissions: Less generator runtime means fewer greenhouse gas emissions.
- Improved reliability: BESS can respond faster than diesel to sudden changes in load.
- Reduced maintenance: Diesel engines last longer when run at steady, optimal loads.
- Scalability: Easier to expand capacity by adding more batteries or renewables.

Diagram of hybrid system

This diagram illustrates how a utility-scale Battery Energy Storage System (BESS) integrates with diesel generators in a hybrid power system, with the structure of islanded micro-grids:

Abigail Ministries Ltd.

was formed in 1992 in Queensland, Australia, when the Lord gave Loraine Addison a vision of the special needs of wives in an unequally-yoked situation.

The Lord has blessed and grown that ministry which now ministers to women in over 40 churches in Australia and overseas.

We offer to establish support groups in areas where there are Christian women married to husbands who do not yet know the Lord. We train facilitators to strengthen these women and encourage them in God's Word and through prayer.

Our Agreement

- Interdenominational
- Confidentiality
- Promotes loyalty to husbands

Our Mandate

- Edify the body of Christ (the Christian woman) so that she is built up in the Word, single minded in loving God, healed and running with vision and purpose.
- Evangelise the lost (her husband and children) through relationship building, reconciliation and prayer.
- Bring awareness to other Christians of the unequally-yoked woman's specific and unique felt needs, so that she is nurtured and equipped to live effectively for Christ.

God's word for us

"Wives, in the same way be submissive to your husbands so that, if any of them do not believe the Word, they may be won over without words by the behaviour of their wives, when they see the purity and reverence of your lives. Your beauty should be that of your inner self: the unfading beauty of a gentle and quiet spirit which is of great worth in the sight of God."

1 Peter 3:1-4

Our Mission Statement

- To encourage intimacy with Christ.
- To foster the spiritual and emotional maturity of these women through the study of God's Word with one another in environment.
- To encourage women to be equipped for Christ and to bring them to Him.
- To equip women to be for Christ and to families by the Word of God.
- To encourage these women to be in the same circumstances.

"To study God's Word, love has been the turn in my marriage, and I have found a place of trust in Him with all its striving and fear and arms... I think that my help my husband to..."

"I've been able to encourage and pray together for our families, so openly, learning how to live, and letting God change me, so I can love my husband unconditionally... as God loves me, and leaving it in His hands as so freeing."

"Yes, our husbands are wonderful, but we need this kind of Christian relationship. Wives Support Group changed my life tremendously... Negative circumstances are being changed into positive testimonies... I have learnt to pray for my husband and I do believe that God is answering my prayers."

Abigail Ministries Ltd.

is interdenominational and offers a friendly, non-threatening, open and caring atmosphere for Christian women married to men who do not yet know the Lord.

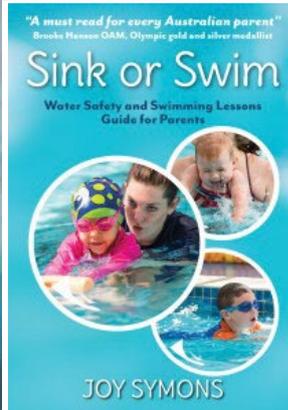

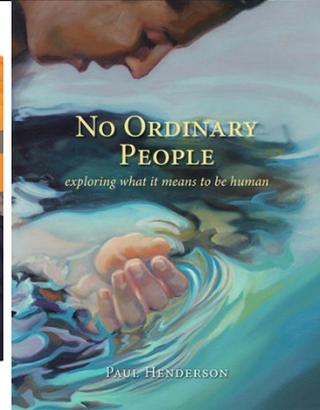

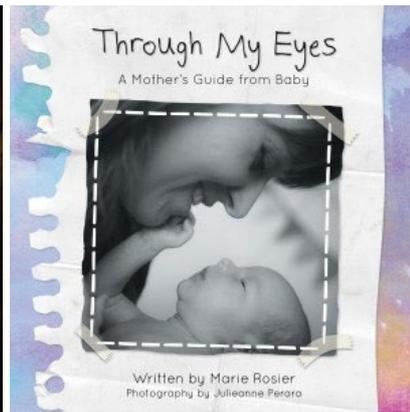

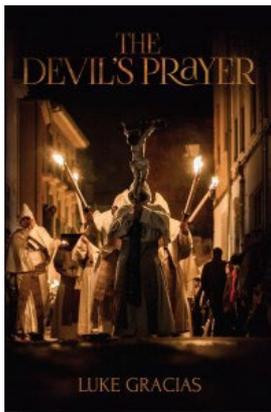

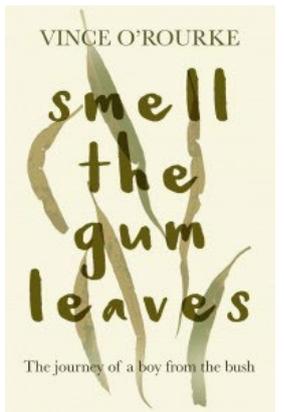

"Now I know that I'm not alone."

Books (print and ebook)

A small selection of the book publishing projects I've overseen

Appendix 1: The large-scale structure of the universe does not need dark matter or dark energy

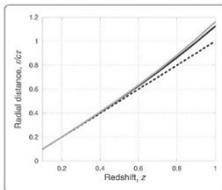

Figure A1.1: Radial distance r/c versus redshift z from (A1.8) for $\Omega = 1$ (broken line), $\Omega = 0.245$ (solid black line) and $\Omega = 0.02$ (solid grey line).

$$\frac{r}{ct} = \frac{\sinh(z\sqrt{1-\Omega})}{\sqrt{1-\Omega}} \quad (\text{A1.9})$$

4. Matter density

Now let us consider what happens to the density of matter as we look back in the cosmos with redshift z . It was assumed in fig. A1.1 that the value of Ω is fixed for each curve. Carmeli also does this in figure A6, page 134 in ref. 5. However, more correctly, Ω varies as a function of z . For flat space, matter

Technical Appendices

density can be related to redshift by

$$\Omega = \Omega_0 (1+z)^3 \quad (\text{A1.10})$$

where Ω is a function of the redshift z , and Ω_0 is the averaged matter density of the universe at the current epoch. Note that when Carmeli solved (A1.5), he ignored the redshift dependence on Ω , saying that as the universe uniformly expands, at any epoch the density is the same across the universe. However, as observers, when we look back through redshift, we see the universe at different states of expansion. As a consequence (A1.10) results from this fact, which is the same as saying that as the redshift increases, the volume decreases as $(1+z)^3$. Notice at $z=1$ that the universe is 8 times smaller in volume and therefore 8 times more dense; that is, at $z=1$, $\Omega = 8 \times \Omega_0$, ignoring any space/velocity curvature.

Substituting (A1.10) into (A1.9), we get

$$\frac{r}{ct} = \frac{\sinh(z\sqrt{1-\Omega_0(1+z)^3})}{\sqrt{1-\Omega_0(1+z)^3}} \quad (\text{A1.11})$$

5. No dark matter needed

Carmeli's equation was able to simulate the form of the $0.1 < z < 1$ redshift data from one of the high-redshift supernova teams* that published in 1998, announcing an accelerating universe. See figure A6, page 134 in ref. 5. In fact, Carmeli had predicted this in 1996* but he assumed a value of total matter (normal + 'dark' matter) density $\Omega = 0.245$, which was the accepted value

Feedback about Amanda's Editing

"Thank you for your really detailed and insightful response. There is a lot to absorb and a great deal of thinking for me to do. I appreciate your directness in pointing out all of the faults in the story. Also you gave some interesting plot lines to follow. ... As I said, I need to do a lot of thinking. I'll give it to you, you're good."—A.C.
